Hancock Votes Republican

TIREDBUT INQUISITIVE, these two future voters found a place to wait while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hoda of Bay St. Louis voted at 6 p.m. Tuesday at the courthouse. Both Joey, left, and Hollie literally put on the patriotic spirit by wearing "VOTE" pants. (Echo staff photo by Marileen Maher)

Hancock County joined the rest of Mississippi and the nation in giving President Richard Nixon an overwhelming victory Tuesday over Democratic nominee George McGovern.

A Republican mood seemed to take hold of local voters as they also gave a majority support to Trent Lott in his race for U.S. Congressman, Fifth District against Democrat Ben Stone of Gulfport.

However, Jim Eastland, who was seeking his sixth term as Democratic Senator was ahead of his nearest opponent, Republican Gil Carmichael by almost 3,000 votes.

Although only 29 of the 32 boxes were counted Tuesday night, unofficial returns for President were listed as follows: Nixon, 4,753; McGovern, 569; Schmitz, 55; and Jenness, 7.

Lott's total was 3,029 against 2,508 for Stone and only 31 for Creel. In the Senate race, Eastland totaled 4,003 to defeat Carmichael, 1,320, Walker, 68, and McKinley, 28.

The returns for three boxes, two from City Hall precinct and one from Waveland precinct, were locked inside the boxes and will not be opened until today at 1 p.m. when the election commission meets.

In other voting, Harry Walker, unopposed, received 4,023 in his bid for Supreme Court Judge and Floyd J. Logan, also unopposed, received 3,695 in the race for Circuit Judge.

In local races, a runoff will be held Nov. 21 between Johnny Banks and Larry Joseph Koenen for County School Board member. Banks received the highest total, 903, to 624 for Koenen. The third man in the race, James Favre, received 583.

On the same day James J. Doyle will face Edgar Moran for the position of Beat Four Election Commissioner. The tally was Doyle, 1,375, Moran, 1,908 and Arthur Marson, 965. Unopposed candidates for election commissioners in the other four beats received the following: Beat One - Isadore Giveans, Jr., 3,338; Beat Two - Francis Lee, 3,324; Beat Three - J. Roland Ladner, 3,431; and Beat Five - Jake Morreale Jr., 3,325.

Hancock County voters decided to oppose association with the Gulf Regional District. Final count was 2,946 Against; 2,392 For.

House Concurrent Resolution No. 4, allowing grand juries to remain empaneled between circuit court, passed with a vote of 2,835 to 1,195.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 502 allowing eighteen-year-olds to vote also passed with 3,042 For to 1,119 Against. The resolution also called for residency requirements for voting at one year in the State and six months in the respective counties. Voting on that part was useless, however, as a Federal Court has ordered the residency requirement for voting anywhere is 30 days.

Supervisors Agree To Hold GEC Money

The problem of what to do with some $210,000 of Governor's Emergency Council money was temporarily resolved Monday when Hancock County supervisors passed a motion to hold the sum, now in investment, pending the disposition of the state legislature.

A resolution to that effect by the County Planning Commission was presented at the meeting by Commission President Roy Baxter, who told supervisors that a letter from the State Bureau of Budgeting as well as another from GEC official stated the first payment on the original loan was due August 3, 1973.

Baxter said conversations with State Senator Ben Stone and other state officials indicated a possibility of future legislation extending forgiveness of disaster loans. The $210,000 under consideration is the balance of a $875,000 GEC loan to Hancock County following Hurricane Camille.

A portion of the original loan was given to Hancock General Hospital, the County School Board and the Port and Harbor Commission for hurricane damage rehabilitation. The Planning Commission's suggestion to retain those allocations and pool the entire amount in an investment plan was rejected by the supervisors as unfeasible. County School Board member Eric Larsen explained that the school board's portion had been invested in treasury bills and added, "I wasn't under the impression that the board of supervisors still had control over that money. I thought it now belonged to the school system."

If it became necessary the school board could return the entire sum plus interest, Larsen said in answer to a question posed by Baxter.

Board President Alton (Dolph) Kellar said he had been apprehensive about repaying the original loan since the beginning. His reluctance to spend any more of the money, he explained, was prompted by the fear of future repayment necessitating raising county taxes.

Beat one supervisor Jerry Ladner argued in favor of spending the entire balance as he said he had been advised that Jackson County had spent all its GEC loan money, with the expectation that expended monies will be forgiven and the balance unspent will be recalled by the state.

Superior Citizens' Association and H. (Bully) Zengering agreed Monday with the idea that spending the money would be unwise as loan forgiveness is not assured.

A motion was passed rescinding an earlier resolution for expenditure of the funds on county road repair, and a second motion recorded to hold the $210,000 in the investment plan. The school and hospital boards will be instructed to retain their portions under similar arrangements pending further notice.

In another matter, a discussion of the controversial Lakeshore Road project, precipitated by a group of property owners, led to a later alteration between Ladner and Kellar.

Property owners and residents in the Lakeshore Road area have repeatedly complained about the road, under construction since early 1971. Poor drainage conditions combined with winter rains will render the road, a main traffic artery in the community, totally impassable, the group feared exhorting the board to take decisive action in the matter. Project Committee Formed

The Hancock County Resource, Conservation and Development Project Committee has been formed.

Sponsored jointly by the Pat Harrison Waterway District and the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District, the purpose of this committee is to help the public take better care of their natural resources and, at the same time, improve their communities' economies.

The major purpose of this organization is to formulate objectives for the enhancement of natural resources and to bring these objectives from a local level up, rather than from a higher level down.

The members of the HCRCDP Committee are: Frank Lee - Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District Commissioner, and

Chairman of this Committee; Bob Jones - Soil Conservation Service; Michael M. Hendry - Mississippi Forestry Commission; Perry F. Gibson - Mississippi State Park Commission; Carol P. Vegas - Bay St. Louis Cleanup & Beautification Committee; Charles C. Dickson - Waveland Planning Commission; Wayne P. Ducomb - County Planning Commission; W.J. Pippin - Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District Commissioner; James Rester - Hancock County Planning Commission; Shirley H. Smith - Soil Conservation Service; Dolph Kellar - president, Hancock County Board of Supervisors; James Travira - vice-president, Hancock County Board of Supervisors; Sylvia McComiskey - Hancock County Chamber of Commerce; Hershel F. Johnson - Farmer's Home Administration; John W. Smith - County Extension Service and L. J. Breaux - president, Farm Bureau.

The initial projects of this committee are: county-wide solid waste disposal system; park & recreation area to be located in the northern part of Hancock County; beautification of Highway 607 between Interstate 10 and U.S. Highway 90 and cleaning and seeding of the road banks in the Necaise-Caesar area of the County.

The next meeting of this committee is scheduled tentatively for January 29, 1973 and the public is cordially invited to attend and submit suggestions for improvement of natural resources of Hancock County.

Agencies Campaign Tops Goal At MTF

Achieving 102.6 percent of their goal, NASA's Mississippi Test Facility employees this week pushed their 1972 Combined Agencies Campaign over the top.

Aiming at $33,000, the campaign realized $33,890, according to Jackson M. Balch, director, Mississippi

Test Facility, and general campaign chairman.

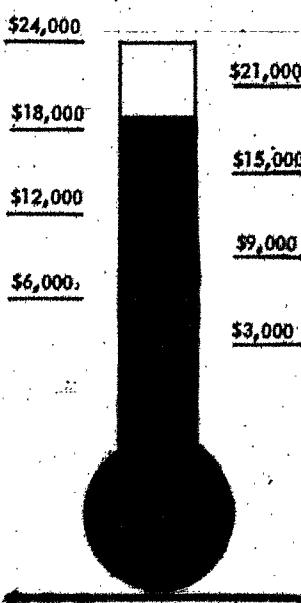

Speaking at a victory luncheon Wallace Brown, drive chairman said the government agencies collected on site, with a target of $11,350, donated $11,577.

This represents an average donation of 46¢ and a 102 percent goal total.

On-site industrial gifts averaged $31 and brought in 103 percent of goal for a total donation of $23,313.

In the main, funds collected will be donated to the United Funds of Harrison, Hancock and Pearl River Counties in Mississippi, and the Greater New Orleans Area (St. Tammany, St. Bernard, Orleans and Jefferson Parishes) in Louisiana; the National Health Agencies; and the International Service Agencies.

"FINALLY A WINNER" - Virginia Wagner, local Republican supporter in the land of Democrats, experiences the joy of backing a winner in Tuesday's General Election. Not only did President Nixon sweep the country (and Hancock County) but Trent Lott will go to the U.S. Congress as Representative of the Fifth District. Mrs. Wagner was politically attired in a paper Nixon dress.

Main Is Again Two-Way

Main Street in Bay St. Louis will again become a two-way thoroughfare from Second St. to the Beach Road.

The action was taken Monday after city officials considered a petition signed by about 100 business people. However, the two-way proposal will be tried on a 60-day trial basis.

Mayor Warren Carver voted against the motion, suggesting that Main St. be kept a one-way street and making Court St. one-way also. Commissioner Andre Arceneaux pointed out that this would hamper the movement of Sheriff's Department vehicles.

Main St. has been one-way since June, 1971.

In other action, the officials agreed to make a $370,472.04 payment to the Department of Housing and Urban Development as the first move to begin paying off the 1964 Utilities System Revenue Bonds.

This payment will bring the city up to date on the interest and coupons due on the water and sewerage bonds. HUD gave the city a deferment of up to five years following Hurricane Camille in 1969.

Commissioner Arceneaux voted against the payment, saying that he felt the city should invest the money in interest-bearing accounts until a later date.

However, Commissioner of Utilities William Friebe said that his department had approximately $500,000 on hand and should use this money to begin repayment to HUD.

Three residents of the Hancock and Citizens Streets area presented a petition requesting an investigation into possible zoning violations by Trinity Christian Institute, located in that neighborhood.

Harry (Wop) Glover explained the petition in which the signers contend that TCI is in violation of the R-1 zoning in that area which prohibits private schools without prior approval from the Planning and Zoning Commission.

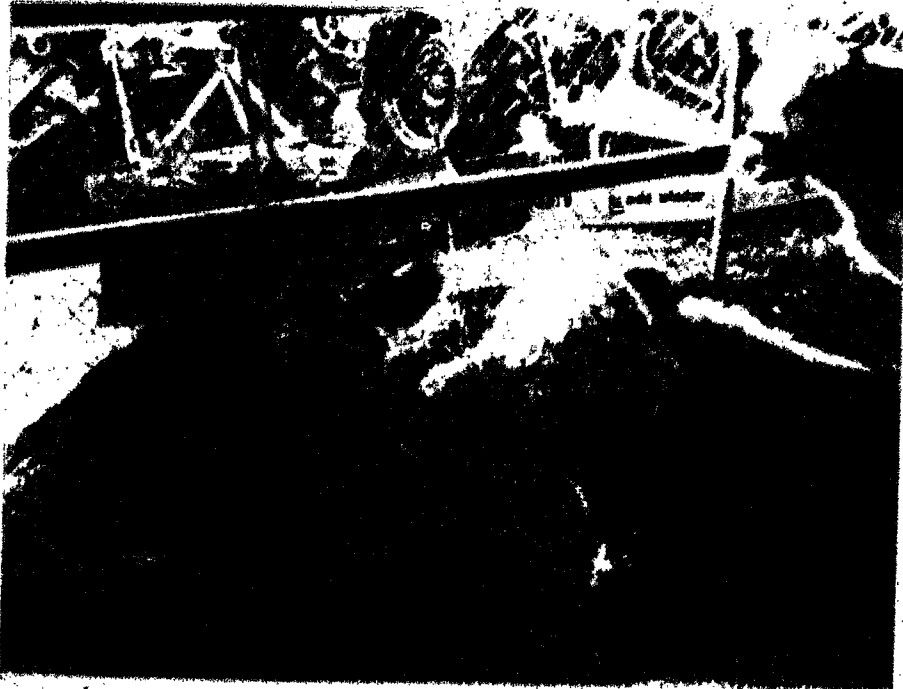

Glover pointed out that the main complaint against the Institute was a retreat held during the summer for "underprivileged children". He also said that parking in that area had been a problem since the Institute opened. Also representing the petitioners were Mrs. Vera Blaize and Mrs. Margaret Gibbons.

Officials agreed to turn the matter over to City Attorney Gerald Gex and to notify the Institute of their action.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE
The Community Thanksgiving Service this year will be held November 22 at 7 p.m. at the Main Street United Methodist Church. Ministers of the area churches will participate. A choir from the various churches is being formed and the public is invited to attend.

DOORS

A woman was trying to turn on the light in a telephone booth, but she couldn't find the switch. A passerby, noting her frustration, said, "Lady, the light comes on when you shut
the door."

Other kinds of automatic switches operate when certain conditions are met:

The Door of Prayer. Enter the secret place, pour out your problems to God, and wait for the insight that follows. It is possible to pray on the run, drowned by noise and confusion. But some lights of understanding never come on until we combine prayer with quiet meditation.

The Door of Leisure. If we are always busy, always tense, always on the go, we

miss much of the strength and insight that comes from relaxation and the wise use of leisure. How else can you explain the origin of some of your best ideas when you are totally relaxed, or even asleep?

The Door of Illness. When sickness blocks the door to your regular routine, the light of self-understanding as well
as sympathetic concern for others often comes on.

The Door of Disappointment.
You had big goals, then the door slammed in your face.
But out of one room, you saw
the way open to another room.
Not necessarily a bigger opportunity, but more suited to your talents.

"Lady, the light comes on
when you close the door!"
Straight Ahead!!!

SALT FOR CATTLE

Lots of times our dairy cows
do not get enough salt. Take a look at your cows. Rough hair coats, loss of appetite and a haggard appearance are characteristic of dairy cows
that are not getting enough salt. On milking cows you will also notice a rapid loss of weight and a decline in milk production.

Dairy cows generally
require a one percent salt content in their ration. Supplemental salt should also be provided free choice. Either the salt in the ration or the supplemental salt should be trace mineralized.

Salt needs of animals vary from time to time. Generally animals in high production or late gestation need more salt.

FALL WEED CONTROL

Some harvested cotton fields should be treated with an incorporated herbicide this fall. Mixed and heavy clay soils that have fair to good surface drainage and have a history of troublesome winter
vegetation and where spring
land preparation is difficult
are good examples.

Fall application may also
aid where minimum seedbed preparation is planned for the spring. For fall application the rate recommended is 25
percent above the normal
recommendation for the soil
type. Caution. Do not overdo and avoid deep incorporation.

HARVEST GOOD SEED

The quality of seed you will plant next spring can be no better than the seed quality at harvest time.

Getting in a rush to complete harvest, starting early and staying late in fields, not paying attention to such things
as picker or combine adjustments, seed moisture and weed seed content can hurt.
They increase mechanical damage to seed, cause hot spots in seed storage or contaminate large quantities of clean seed with a few loads of seed heavily infested with weed seed.

Aeration of both cottonseed
and soybeans will aid in maintaining seed quality.
Aeration cools seed quickly
and may also remove some moisture.

Aerate seed while bins or
seedhouses are being filled.
This is especially true with cottonseed to remove gin heat as quickly as possible. Periodic aeration on cool, dry
days throughout the storage
period will help keep seed cool
and prevent moisture build-up in the seed.

Over $187,300 in scholarships
and other awards will be given to 270 4-H winners during the 51st National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 26-30. The awards are donated by 55
corporations, businesses and foundations.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

Well, the elections are in the bag, the victors can be distinguished by their broad smiles and the losers by that look which says "Oh, I didn't care much about it anyway",
and the rest of us can go back to our normal worries. If the winners keep their promises
we may be a little better off; if they don't, we'll just be where we started from!

One thing we don't always realize is that some of our troubles are brought on by ourselves, and it takes more than a politician's veto to erase them. For a number of years we have watched the cost of living creep up and up,
and we have clamored for
high income, better wages,
and economy in government
so that we could stay even with our bills. But in all the millions of hot words that have filled the air on this subject,
we can't recall ever having seen or heard a word of selfaccusation.

Mr. Jones, his wife and three growing kids have $150 a week to live on. Rent, utilities, food, clothing, and a dozen
"little" expenses eat up

almost all of this, leaving maybe $15 a week for taxes,
the car, the Christmas club-
though the doctor will grab all of it mighty quick if anyone gets sick. So the Joneses are living right on the line, you might say, when suddenly up goes the cost of living one or two percent.

In the old days, dad would just have hitched up his suspenders and told mom that every useless expense was to be cut out. So pop got his hair cut once a month instead of every three weeks, mom
made a jar of face cream last four weeks instead of two, and the kids almost forgot what an ice cream soda tasted like-
and the budget stayed balanced, through the living
was a little less gay.

Such frugality is still the rule with many families, but with too many this Spartan regimen is too much of a drag;
something will happen to put them on their feet again. Uncle Sam will come charging to their relief, they can pawn the antique jewelry Aunt Jane left them; easiest of all, they can go to the loan company and

Forestry Report

A serious outbreak of Southern Pine Beetles has been discovered in at least nine Southwest Mississippi counties, according to the Mississippi Forestry Commission. The area affected currently encompasses over two million acres of predominantly pine timberland.

State Forester Bill Gaddis
said that the infestation has reached an epidemic level in some areas. The heaviest concentrations of the tiny reddish-brown or black beetles are located in Copiah
and adjoining counties to the south, north, and west. Beetle infestations have also been confirmed in Lauderdale County and are suspected to be present in several other counties along the Alabama line.

Gaddis described the Southern Pine Beetle as the most destructive of all insects attacking pine trees in the South.

An infested pine is girdled
and killed when large numbers of the beetle tunnel
beneath the bark and destroy the cambium (growing layer)
of the tree. The first visible evidence of infestation is small globs of white pitch (somewhat resembling popcorn) on the trunk, and
yellowing of the crown foliage.
The needles turn reddish
brown a few weeks later.

The most economical
control measure for the beetle
is immediate salvage of infested trees to halt their spread to healthy neighboring trees. Salvage of all pines in a buffer strip 40-70 feet wide adjacent to and just ahead of the most recently infested trees is also necessary in these salvaging operations.

Chemical spraying of logs, stumps and tops with a mixture of Lindane and diesel fuel is another recommended control as is piling and burning. However, these are usually "last resort" control measures. They are most often incorporated in the case of small infested spots, involving only a few trees,
where marketing of the logs is not economically feasible.

The Forestry Commission is appealing to forest industries,
the Federal Forest Service
and private landowners for their cooperation in facilitating quick salvage of beetle infested trees. The State Forestry Agency is also seeking federal matching funds through the Forest Pest Control Act to be used in detection and direct control measures.

Commenting on the importance of immediate salvage of infested trees, State Forester Gaddis pointed out that landowners may have to be satisfied with a reduced
market price for their beetle damaged trees in order to facilitate their removal and protect remaining healthy timber.

"In some instances, where
the beetles have attacked
small, scattered groups of trees, it's going to be very get a nice handful of cash. So dad still smokes his cigars,

mom still buys cake and tv dinner at the store, and the kids still throw away two bits
or more a day on candy and comic books.

Reduced to simple terms,
inflation is the result of greed
on the part of the supplier and weak backbones of the users.
There is no better way to clean
a dirty pan than to use soap, sand and elbow grease, but it's easier and more convenient to use a prepared pad and, after all, "it only costs a few cents".
And in a week those few cents
here and there have grown up into a couple of dollars, the weekly income has shrunk a little, and that's inflation.

Take a look at your week's trash some day; note the candy wrappers, the soft drink bottles, the beauty aid containers, the magazines; count
the records that you've played once or twice and have then forgotten, the other useless things you've bought during the past month; would you and your family be any the worse off if you hadn't spent that money? Economy isn't a dirty word if it gives your paycheck
a shot in the arm.

book for roasting guides.
Pan-frying, broiling and outdoor grilling are other delectable cookery methods
for pork cuts.

Now is the time to feature pork in your menus. Easy on the budget, nutritious and delicious - pork entrees will win you compliments from family and friends. Stuffed pork chops are an attractive main dish for guests. A luscious baked ham is great for the buffet. The tempting aroma of crisp bacon or sausage whets the family
appetite for a good breakfast.
A nicely baked juicy roast pork is easily prepared and most popular this time of year.

Following are a couple pork recipes you may find interesting and maybe they'll inspire you to enjoy pork more often.

ROAST PIG ON A PLATTER

A small whole pig for difficult to get them removed
at all," said Gaddis. "In such cases it is imperative that the trees be felled and either chemically treated or piled and burned in order to halt the spread of the destructive insects," he added.

The last serious outbreak of Southern Pine Beetles in Mississippi occurred in the early 1960's. Records show periodic exploding populations of the beetle as far back as the 1800's. Significantly, it has been found
this year in areas of the State where it has never been found before.

County Forester Michael M.
Hendry of Hancock County
announces that the Mississippi Forestry Commission equipment and personnel are available for contract firelane
construction work.

No limitation is set on the number of miles of firelanes that can be plowed for any landowner, but it is the policy to plow firelanes for as many timber owners as possible. In cases where requests for this service exceeds the capacity
of personnel and equipment,
the smaller jobs will receive priority. This will permit the service to continue to be available to the greatest number of landowners.

A written contract between County Forester Hendry and
the landowner must be signed before any work is performed.
A joint agreement will be made in advance that the firelane construction work will be on an actual cost basis.
This cost will be $5.50 per hour. The landowner will be held responsible for furnishing boundary line information to Commission employees.

The Commission equipment
will continue to be available for firelane plowing as long as it does not interfere with the primary function of suppressing wild woods fires.
Funds received from this activity will be credited to the Forestry Commission budget
in Hancock County for the purpose of maintaining and advancing the County forestry program.

Hancock County landowners
interested in this fire protection service should contact County Forester Michael Hendry for details.
Hendry pointed out that this service for which cost compensation is received is not one of the benefits included in the basic fire protection system for which landowners pay two cents per acre tax on all timbered and un-
cultivated land.

roasting and bringing to the
table with an apple in its mouth is NOT a common sight
in local grocery stores.
However, just for fun and in case an opportunity does arise
when you can serve this attractive edible centerpiece, here's how it is done.

Select a small porker, 5 to 6
weeks old, weighing no more than 8 to 12 pounds after dressing. Ovens won't stretch!
It should be dressed with eyes,
tongue and feet removed.
Singe to remove hair. Scrape with a dull knife to remove bristles. Scrub skin with a stiff brush. Rinse pig inside and out with cold running water, pat
dry, season cavity with salt.

STUFFING: Choose a stuffing to your choice. If bread is used, the seasoning should be sage. Jamaicans are partial to a mash-potato filling. Kidney, liver and heart of pig are cleaned, then chopped and sautéed with onion in butter. Tomatoes are added and herbal seasonings - marjoram, thyme, garlic, and
the combination beaten into the seasoned mashed potato.

Rice may be used and often is;
also fruit, either apples or
plums and sometimes both.
Pack stuffing very lightly into porker. Allow about 8 cups.
Close up the opening by sewing with a large needle and soft string; pulling the front feet forward, tie together. Pull the hind feet backward
together and securely tie if there is room enough in the pan; otherwise, pull forward.
Crush aluminum foil to cover ears. Place the piglet on a large sheet of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Rub skin with a cut of lime and brush over with melted butter to make skin roast crisp and golden brown. Season with salt and pepper. Bring foil up over back and overlap about 3 inches. Fold up foil at head and feet.

When ready to serve, have mango cut in small slices or balls in a silver sauceboat or other heat-proof server. Heat rum in a small decorative sauce-pan. Pour hot sauce over mango and bring to the table with rum. Pour a little of the rum in a ladle, ignite with match and add to mixture.
Add remaining rum to ladle, then to float on sauce. When rum is burned for a few minutes, spoon sauce over and over to blend the delicious flavors.

Despite rumors to the contrary, and all those saccharin protestations from civics teachers of yore, it is NOT easy to vote.

As an American one may inherit the constitutional right on reaching a certain age, but the physical act of exercising that prerogative can develop into a traumatic experience.

As an example, consider the plight of a local voter Tuesday, hurrying through pressing business matters in order to get to the polls in time to help select a new (or used) President, as well as a long list of lesser lights and other matters of grave importance.

It all got off to a bad start before the hapless voter ever got to the polls, when she was confronted with a sample ballot and told sternly not to put an X by the names of the men she wanted for President and Vice-President.

"In fact," her instructor explained, "Ignore their names. Just put X's by all the names below theirs."

Confusion set in immediately. In order to vote for the man you want, ignore him and vote for seven other guys? As she started to ask why, she was told non-compliance would render her ballot invalid. Mumbling something about "ours not to question why, ours just to do it," she set off for what she thought was her assigned polling place, clutching the marked sample ballot.

Her glow of patriotic fervor was shattered at the first polling place. After lengthy riffling through many pages of names, on which hers was conspicuous by its absence, the poll manager regarded her suspiciously and asked for her card.

My card? Your voter registration card, he intoned, his attitude suggesting that the only thing she could produce was a cell card with a red border.

Growing more embarrassed by the minute, she pulled out a bulging wallet, devoid of money but crammed with cards of every description.

Bored poll workers and old-hand voters watched with ill concealed amusement as she nervously shuffled through an endless pile of business cards, clinic cards, grocery lists, about 10 years of school pictures of her children, driver's license and all sorts of extraneous matter she had forgotten she ever had until, with a triumphant shriek, "here it is!"

His suspicions were confirmed. He handed it back, frowning. That's for another state. We're in Mississippi. She took up the search again, feeling beads of perspiration break out on her forehead. A second card turned up, this one saying all the right things, she thought.

A careful perusal of that card brought the verdict. You don't belong here. She wondered if St. Peter, considering the scroll was going to be as adamant. Surely there's a mistake. . . I voted here once before, she began hurriedly. As a matter of fact, I've voted at several different. . . . She was cut off, patiently but firmly. You're North Bay.

As she left she realized the sample ballot, still in her damp palm, was wadded beyond recognition. At North Bay Elementary School an instant case of paranoia set in as not one manager nor even a P.R.O. was in evidence. This time, it took less than five minutes to draw a crowd, the consensus of which was that any voter who couldn't even find her way to the right polling place obviously didn't deserve the right to cast a ballot.

She left again armed with hastily drawn maps and diagrams. Boreding on hysteria, she staggered into the Garden Center where she was immediately recognized by two poll workers. As the search started for her name, she consoled herself with the thought that if they rejected her here, she'd kill herself and go down in history as a tragic blot on the American democratic system.

A repeated request to "please sign here" brought her out of the reverie. Unable to handle the sudden shock of finally being accepted, she signed on the wrong line, misspelling her name. Two ballots were pressed into her clammy hands and she was aimed toward an empty booth by a kindly poll worker.

The travail wasn't over yet. Her carefully marked sample ballot had been lost in the shuffle and a myriad of unfamiliar names swam before her eyes. Many different sets of feet came and went in neighboring booths as she stood in an agony of indecision for what seemed like eons. She wondered if anybody had missed her, or worse, maybe they had replaced her at the office. Desperately, she put an X in every box, wadded up the ballots and raced out, surprised that it was still daylight outside.

Back at the office a friendly question as to her prolonged absence brought a terse reply.

"I don't want to talk about it," she snapped, as a great and profound truth came to her over-taxed brain.

An absolute monarchy is the only answer. The human race is not ready for the Democratic system.

TWO ST. ROSE DE LIMA students, T.J. Farve and Merinda Williams attempt to persuade Mrs. Beatrice Gates to buy "Flame of Hope" candles. The candles are made by an organization called Flame of Hope - an organization comprised of thousands of mentally retarded people. The candles are all handmade and may be purchased either singly or by a box of eight. The project is a fund-raising one for St. Rose and students are now conducting a campaign to sell all of them before Christmas.

Guard Will Host Open House

Mississippi National Guard units from across the state plan to turn their armories into community showcases November 11-12 and individual "citizen-soldiers" will attend their churches in uniform to observe "National Guard Sunday."

Major General E.A. "Beby" Turnage, Adjutant General of the State of Mississippi, said the special activities were planned as part of a continuing program to improve relations between the Guard and the local communities, and to promote recruiting.

General Turnage said Saturday, November 11, would be designated for a "Belong to the Guard for a Day" program to give young Mississippians an opportunity to see Guardsmen in action during a regular weekend drill.

"They will be able to talk with Guardsmen personally, try out Guard equipment, lunch with Guardsmen and become acquainted with the Guard's important state and federal missions," the Adjutant General said.

He said Sunday, November 12, has been designated by the Governor as "Guard Sunday" in Mississippi with Guardsmen being encouraged to attend the church of their choice in uniform. Pastors of churches across the state have been urged to take time out on this Sunday to recognize those Guardsmen in their congregation for the service they render to the community, state and nation.

General Turnage also said he had requested each Guard unit to hold an "Open House" or "Family Day" during the weekend to give local citizens an opportunity to tour the armory, have refreshments, inspect equipment displays and view Guardsmen in action.

On Saturday all young men who are interested in the National Guard are invited to come to the Armory in Bay St. Louis and witness an Armory Drill. They will also be able to talk to the Guardsman and see and try the equipment.

On Sunday all men of the local unit will be encouraged to attend the church of choice that morning. From noon to 1:30 p.m. lunch will be served at the Armory for the Guardsmen and their families.

At 2 p.m. the Armory will be open to the general public.

Bazaar Opens Wednesday

The Women of Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis have announced a gala Bells are Ringing Bazaar, scheduled for November 15, from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. in the carriage house behind the church at 912 S. Beach.

Proceeds from the Bazaar, an annual fund raising activity of the women's group, will be used this year to renovate the more than 70-year-old carriage house to be used as a church school. Mrs. Hilaire Ogden, Bazaar chairman, has advised that a myriad of items, most of which are handcrafted, will be offered for sale. Mrs. Ogden described some of the articles to include Christmas decorations, jewelry, toys, white elephants and homemade foods such as jam, jellies and baked goods.

Miss Diane Presnell of New Orleans, who has returned from a weeks vacation in Mexico, visited last weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Elus Depree. Also visiting their parents for the weekend were their son Gregory, a student at Samford University, Birmingham, Ala., and Patricia, who is attending Pearl River Junior College, Poplarville.

A highlight of the day for Bazaar patrons will be a buffet dinner served in the Parish Hall from 5:30 until 8 p.m. Donations for the dinner which will be cooked by the women of the church, are $1.50 each.

The two-story carriage house, located mid-way between the church and Christ Episcopal Day School, is the only structure remaining of the historic Wisner estate. When hurricane Camille destroyed the Coast Episcopal High School complex in Pass Christian, high school students attended classes for two years in the carriage house. Now empty and badly in need of repair, the graceful old structure has been designated as a much-needed church school site. Mrs. Paul Vegas is chairman of the renovation project.

Creatures Entertain On All Hallows Eve

by Adoree Shortle
Echo staff writer

Something truly different and greatly entertaining in the way of Hallowe'en night diversion has for two years been attracting increasing numbers of local citizens to the Bert Steiffel residence on Lafayette Drive in Waveland.

The Steiffels' Hallowe'en night Haunted House, a tribute not only to their ingenuity but their concern for children, this year brought close to 2,000 visitors to enjoy the production. Merle Steiffel counted 1,179 children and about half that many adults who came from Clermont Harbor, Lakeshore and the country as well as hordes from Waveland and Bay St. Louis. The news had been spread by word of mouth that there was something not to be missed in Waveland, so people came in a steady stream from 6 p.m. until, finally exhausted, the Haunted House occupants closed down at 10 p.m.

It all began a few years back when Bert and Merle Steiffel became concerned over reports of children injured from receiving dope and medicinally tainted candies and apples with razor blades during Hallowe'en trick or treating. The idea of a Haunted House with an appropriate cast of characters was conceived to entertain small All Hallow's Eve visitors. Friends got into the spirit of the idea (if you'll pardon the pun) and this year's resultant Haunted House was a howling success.

Three couples — the Bert Steiffels, the Jerry Ladners and the Pete Chapmans — worked for three days to create a bamboo jungle in the Steiffels' front yard.

Hidden lights provided just enough illumination for the spectator to find his way through as pots of dry ice in the foliage kept a spine chilling mist curling around strange and frightening "ghouls" in recessed areas. All sorts of weird sounds emanated from the jungle. Dogs howled, cats wailed and sepulchral voices called out to the passerby.

As the intrigued visitor approached the entrance a hairy, leering Wolf Man (Bert Steiffel) suddenly materialized from the darkness with a guttural invitation to enter. Recoiling from this apparition, he usually backed into a cage containing a very large and ferocious looking gorilla, (Jerry Ladner), brandishing an equally large club. The gorilla's greeting was generally drowned out by shrieks from everybody in the vicinity.

A lot of children and not a few adults refused to go past this point, but after a good bit of cajoling from the Wolf Man curiosity won out and they continued — always in groups.

A little further down the shadowy path there was a coffin with a real body in it! The sign above the coffin identified the white-shrumped occupant (Mary Ellen Ladner) as Dracula's wife and judging from her "dead" white complexion, she had expired from a complete lack of blood. At unexpected times, however, she suddenly arose moaning and extending her arms to the by now terrified visitor who raced off into another clearing where Count Dracula, (Pete Chapman) reappeared in cape and fangs, then added with a frightening looking vampire, (Randy Chapman). On a table a bowl of blood red liquid bubbled and foamed. He graciously offered each visitor a glass of blood but he never did have any takers.

At the end of the path in the murky darkness another vampire (Merle Steiffel) reclined on a cushion greeting those who had managed to make it that far. Most of the children into whose hands she pressed candy were too catatonic to do anything but stare — speechlessly.

Two indescribable ghouls (Kimberly, 14, and Herbert, Jr., 15, Steiffel), who kept popping in and out of the bushes, completed the group.

Delighted at the success of this year's effort the Steiffels are planning an even bigger production next year, with an expanded jungle and a larger group of horror characters to include additional friends who have asked to participate.

It's a pretty tricky idea for a great Hallowe'en treat.

At the entrance, a hospitable Wolf Man....

Gaudet Completing Central American Study Reports

Commenting on a seven part "Central American Study", now being written by William Gaudet, formerly editor of Latin American Report magazine, and a resident of Waveland, the Alliance for Progress newsletter, published in Washington by the Organization of American States, labels the publication as being primarily designed for "business men and prospective investors, travelers or students with more than a passing interest in the area."

Then, in commenting on the writing style employed in the study, the official Washington based newsletter had this to say:

"A veteran reporter, editor and publisher, Gaudet has for years 'interpreted' Latin America to U.S. citizens and developed a realistic and pragmatic approach that does not waste time in discussing even variable philosophical and ideological concepts such as 'democracy' or 'dictatorship.'"

Gaudet a frequent visitor to the Americas, gathered the material for this study on a trip to seven Central American countries this past July and August. He was accompanied by his wife, Coral, who acted as research assistant.

The first study, on British Honduras, already has been published and the second, "Report on Guatemala", is now at the printers. Then, in order will follow Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama.

Each single report, published in paperback format, sells for $7.50 and the entire series for $35.00 and is available through International Investment Consultants, P.O. Box 14, Waveland, Miss. 38576.

CEDS Continues In Southern Association

A committee of seven educators from the Gulf Coast area with state Department of Education officials recently approved Christ Episcopal Day School in Bay St. Louis for continued inclusion in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, following a two-day inspection of the school's facilities.

At a dinner meeting preceding the inspection tour, Dr. O.W. Rains, committee coordinator told those attending the affair in Virginia Hall, that Christ Episcopal was the second school in the state to enter the association ten years ago. The recent inspection was in line with an association requirement for all member schools to retain accreditation.

The association bases its standards for accreditation on criteria which were set in a series of what Dr. Rains described as "historic conferences" held some years ago in Daytona Beach, Fla. The resultant manual on elementary education standards, he explained, calls for qualitative criteria rather than quantitative.

Unlike the state department which has only one level of accreditation standards, Southern Assn. has three. The committee's inspection is based on whichever of the three the individual school has applied for. According to Fr. Charles Johnson, headmaster of Christ Schools, this 10-year inspection was to retain the double A accreditation conferred upon the school 10 years ago. At the conclusion of the inspection, which included grades one through eight, school administrators were presented a rough draft of the committee's report which recommended CEDS for continued inclusion in the association at its present level of accreditation.

In the report, the committee commended the school's purposes for being "in accord with accepted educational practices....course offerings extend beyond admission requirements of the average colleges."

Regarding curriculum, the report stated "The program of studies ensures the maximum development of each pupil mentally, socially, physically and emotionally, which is facilitated by a balanced program of appropriate elementary experiences."

The faculty and staff of the school were commended for possessing "the qualifications and personal skills necessary to implement the philosophy and purposes for which the school is designed. The principal and regular faculty members 'hold' proper certification for the professional positions to which they are assigned." Faculty members, the report added, demonstrate a very positive attitude toward the school, its pupils and their responsibility in general.

Considering all aspects of the school the committee made no recommendations for meeting requirements for double A accreditation.

The committee report noted in particular that as CEDS pupils were above average in intelligence most classes used textbooks on a higher grade level; that there was good school-community interaction; that the school was governed by a well-established board of trustees; and the school funds and records were benefited by having a principal "who is a financial expert".

Peter Psikogios, principal of both the elementary Day School, and Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian, said a self-study is being prepared on the high school in anticipation of an application for that school's inclusion in the Southern Assn. The self-study takes about a year for completion, Psikogios said.

A committee of seven educators from the Gulf Coast area with State Department of Education officials recently approved Christ Episcopal Day School in Bay St. Louis for continued inclusion in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, following a two-day inspection of the school's facilities.

At a dinner meeting preceding the inspection tour, Dr. O.W. Rains, committee coordinator told those attending the affair in Virginia Hall, that Christ Episcopal was the second school in the state to enter the association ten years ago. The recent inspection was in line with an association requirement for all member schools to retain accreditation.

The association bases its standards for accreditation on criteria which were set in a series of what Dr. Rains described as "historic conferences" held some years ago in Daytona Beach, Fla. The resultant manual on elementary education standards, he explained, calls for qualitative criteria rather than quantitative.

Unlike the state department which has only one level of accreditation standards, Southern Assn. has three. The committee's inspection is based on whichever of the three the individual school has applied for. According to Fr. Charles Johnson, headmaster of Christ Schools, this 10-year inspection was to retain the double A accreditation conferred upon the school 10 years ago. At the conclusion of the inspection, which included grades one through eight, school administrators were presented a rough draft of the committee's report which recommended CEDS for continued inclusion in the association at its present level of accreditation.

In the report, the committee commended the school's purposes for being "in accord with accepted educational practices...course offerings extend beyond admission requirements of the average colleges."

Regarding curriculum, the report stated "The program of studies ensures the maximum development of each pupil mentally, socially, physically and emotionally, which is facilitated by a balanced program of appropriate elementary experiences."

The faculty and staff of the school were commended for possessing "the qualifications and personal skills necessary to implement the philosophy and purposes for which the school is designed. The principal and regular faculty members hold proper certification for the professional positions to which they are assigned." Faculty members, the report added, demonstrate a very positive attitude toward the school, its pupils and their responsibility in general.

Considering all aspects of the school the committee made no recommendations for meeting requirements for double A accreditation.

The committee report noted in particular that as CEDS pupils were above average in intelligence most classes used

textbooks on a higher grade level; that there was good school-community interaction; that the school was governed by a well-established board of trustees; and the school funds and records were benefited by having a principal "who is a financial expert".

Peter Psikogios, principal of both the elementary Day School, and Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian, said a self-study is being prepared on the high school in anticipation of an application for that school's inclusion in the Southern Assn. The self-study takes about a year for completion, Psikogios said.

agreement Tanner Heavy Equipment Co., prime contractor on the road job, is responsible for winter maintenance of the road until March when a paving contract can be let for road completion.

At a lunch meeting between Tanner, County Engineer Larry Seal and the board of supervisors, a verbal agreement was reached by which Supervisor Jerry Ladner would furnish a county grader and Tanner would furnish the labor to maintain the road until spring.

Earlier at the board meeting, a personality conflict was aired when Ladner accused Kellar of "illegally" entering his (Ladner's) beat to perform repair work on the Pearl River Road in the Pearlington area.

A claims warrant in the amount of $247.50 for 56 cubic yards of shells, paid to former Beat One Supervisor H.G. Dean and authorized by Kellar, started the heated exchange. Ladner, rising from his seat at the foot of the board table accused the board president of duplicity in hiring Dean, a political opponent of Ladner, to perform the work.

Angrily Ladner said Kellar's action had "embarrassed" him in his beat and that it was illegal and that he had no prior knowledge of the need for the work.

"In the beginning we all agreed that we'd stay out of each other's beats," Ladner shouted at Kellar, "and what you did was illegal and embarrassing to me."

Board attorney Rubie Griffin interjected at that point that there was nothing whatever illegal about supervisors performing work for each other, and that past supervisors had often exchanged funds, labor and equipment to help each other out.

Kellar, supported by the other supervisors, reminded Ladner of a prior meeting when Ladner said he didn't have the money to fix the road and accepted Kellar's offer to do the work.

"Since you're determined to make an issue out of it, let's bring it all out in the open," Kellar said, pointing out that there were some $48,000 worth of Beat One assessments which county tax assessor-collector George Heltmann couldn't get to because of the impassability of the Pearl River Road. Pearlington residents, despairing of assistance from Ladner had repeatedly contacted him for help, Kellar continued.

"There are people all over Pearlington who complain that there has not yet been a motor grader on their roads and the bushes and weeds haven't been cut in months," he stated.

Returning to the warrant for the shells, Kellar said he had received bids of $5.50 and $6 for shells and that Dean's bid of $4.50 was the lowest.

"I promised those people, with your concurrence, that I'd do something so I did it," Kellar concluded.

As Ladner started to elaborate his objection to the work being done, Ladner reminded him of an earlier threat in which Ladner said he "was going to punish those people for complaining about the roads." When Ladner vehemently denied saying that Kellar said "You did say it to me. You said most of those people are just weekend residents and you were going to punish them for coming down here and complaining." Kellar ended the discussion by calling for order and the board turned to other matters.

The board refused to consider a request for a raise in pay for sheriff's department personnel, following a plea by Deputy James Ladner for acceptance of an annual budget of $132,000 for the sheriff's department. Ladner said an inadequate roster of deputies caused a hardship for the men who often work double shifts. An increase in pay would also enable the deputies to buy their own hospital, life and accident insurance coverage, none of which the county provides. Recently purchased insurance for the sheriff's department only covers damage to the three patrol cars but makes no provision for personal injury to the deputy or other parties.

In objecting to the pay increase, Kellar said that the sheriff's secretary now is paid more than clerks in the tax office some of whom have worked for the county for 16 years.

The consensus of the board was that if one department was increased they should all be and the county "would go bankrupt if we did that."

In an unrelated matter, the board passed a motion to petition both the Department of Interior and the State Game and Fish Commission to declare the Mississippi Test Facility buffer zone a game preserve, following a request by Game and Fish Warden C. J. Cameron.

Cameron told supervisors that the game wardens were not authorized to enter the buffer zone, which is federal jurisdiction, to control what he described as wanton violations of wild game in that section.

A motion was passed unanimously granting permission to the City of Waveland to change a polling place from the old Elementary School, which has been condemned as unsafe, to City Hall, as well as approval for a similar move in Pearlington from Charles-B. Murphy School to the Community Center.

Chancery Clerk John Rutherford reminded the board that the courthouse will be closed Friday due to Armistice Day observance.

Firemen Fight Pass Training Fires

Five abandoned houses in Pass Christian were burned over the weekend as part of practical training at a two-day Tactics Seminar sponsored by the State Fire Fighters School. The seminar was attended by approximately 70 fire personnel from 15 fire departments throughout the State.

The houses, most of which had been damaged during Hurricane Camille, were given to be used for training by permission of the owners. Instructors for the seminar were Chief Ben Clark, president of the State Firefighters Association; James Skeeter Hart, Jr., State Coordinator, Mississippi State Fire School in Jackson; Capt. Jerry McDaniels, Natchez Fire Marshal for the City of Natchez and Adams County; Hugh Tyler, fire chief from Hernando; Asst. Chief P.A. Ross of the Hattiesburg Fire Dept.; Frank Gavich, chief of the Biloxi Dept.; and Capt. Williams, Jackson Fire Chief.

During Saturday and Sunday's maneuvers, instructors would enter the houses to set the fires and then send in firemen to locate the fire and extinguish it with as little water as possible. The firemen were divided into several groups, not necessarily according to department or city.

"In the past, we have been able to secure old houses to burn for training purposes, however, they are becoming harder to come by and we are fortunate to have these five," Hart said.

During the training, the Long Beach Rescue Squad was on standby in the event of injuries.

Wildcats Stomp Tigers

The Pearl River Junior College Wildcats, scoring the first five times they had the ball, won their eighth game in nine starts Saturday night by beating the Northwest Tigers 33-7.

Pearl River, the nation's eighth ranked team, scored at will on the hapless Tigers from Booneville. Racking up 366 rushing yards to 110 for Northwest.

L.B. Bullock, freshman tailback, scored his eleventh touchdown and sixty-sixth point. Playing only sparingly, the Petal speedster gained 183 yards in 13 tries.

After Bullocks opening Touchdown, Northwest made their one and only drive of the game. Moving seventy-six yards, and scoring on a five yard pass from Jackie Pennington to Jim Pounds. Bill Wilbank booted the PAT.

Minutes later PRC went ahead to stay on a Charles Hutchins to Wes McFarland pass from three yards out. Hank Reid, who made the first PAT, missed his second extra point try.

The Wildcats tallied three times in the second quarter. J.W. Rawls scored from one, Hutchins from the seven, and Craig Franklin from the four yard line. Aubrey Fleming completed the scoring of the night by catching a two point conversion pass. Second half action saw the Wildcat bench emptied, to give the freshmen some game experience.

Next week the Cats, owning the best record in the state, will play the Northwest Rangers at Senatobia. This will be the last game of the seventy-two season, unless Pearl River gets an invitation to one of three Nationally held Junior College bowl games.

The Tigers scored on the final play of the first half on a pass from Bilbo which was deflected by a Notre Dame defender into the hands of Dave Richardson in the end zone. Once again Piazza kicked the extra point making the score 21-0 in favor of Bay High at half time.

Dale Lolacano of the Tigers intercepted a Notre Dame Pass late in the third quarter to start the Tigers on their way to another TD. Was a pleasure being with Lloyd Garcia while fishing the other day. Lloyd is with the Iwanta Company. He has charge of the vast land holdings of the company and places the blockades at the mouth of all bayous running thru the land this time of the year while the duck hunting season is on. Lloyd has been with the company for years. He is also a special game warden for the La. Fish and Game Commission. Sam Smith is a watchman for the Iwanta Co., and works with Lloyd. Two real sportsmen. The bayous are open to fishermen during the summer months and are noted for their excellent fresh water fishing (bass and perch).

We regretted hearing of the death of Frank Quintini, Sr. over the weekend. Frank was one of our best older citizens and always a good sport. Sympathy is extended to the family.

The duck season opened

Saturday over in the Louisiana Marshes where most of our local duck hunters go. According to some there weren't too many ducks, probably too hot as yet. The La. Fish and Game Commission predicts more ducks than usual will come to the feeding grounds later and that this year's hunting will exceed all former years.

Don't forget the Sidelines Turkey Shoot coming up this coming Sunday, Nov. 12, at S.S.C. Stadium. Whether you shoot or not there will be fun, eats and drinks for all.

Let's Talk About Your Electric Bill

Your electric bills were probably higher this summer than they were during the summer of 1971. Hopefully, the following facts will help you to understand why:

A Long Hot Summer

U.S. Weather Bureau records show that temperatures during July, August, and September in the southeast Mississippi area were much higher than in the same three months last year, and this temperature trend continued into October.

This table compares the number of days last summer and this summer with temperatures of 90 degrees or above.

MONTH	1971	1972	% INCREASE
July	18	24	33%
August	21	29	38%
September	9	27	200%

The fact is, your air conditioning, freezers, refrigerators, and fans have worked harder and longer hours this summer than last, and you may have set your thermostats lower. This probably accounted for the largest part of the increase in your electric bill. Neither of us can do anything about the weather, but Mississippi Power Company does make certain that you have plenty of electric power to meet your needs for comfort during record hot summers like 1972. Some customers added appliances, also. And when you use more electricity, regardless of the reason, your bill is going to be higher.

The following table compares the average kilowatt-hour usage of residential customers in 1971 and 1972 and shows the cost of this increased usage. (We suggest that you compare the kilowatt-hour usage shown on your bills to determine whether you used more or less than the average.)

Month	Average Usage of Residential Customers 1971	Average Usage of Residential Customers 1972	Cost of Increased Usage
July	1165 KWH	1236 KWH	$1.09
August	1192 KWH	1294 KWH	$1.62
September	1136 KWH	1386 KWH	$3.77

Higher Fuel Cost

Another reason that your bills were higher is the steep rise in the price of fuel (natural gas, coal, oil, liquified petroleum gas) used at our plants to generate electricity. Inflation and the rapidly dwindling supply of environmentally acceptable fuels brought about this increase. Although this fuel squeeze has not adversely affected electric service in the area, it has increased our fuel costs. Since 1955, Mississippi Power Company rate schedules have contained "fuel adjustment" clauses. The clause provides that the cost to the customer of each kilowatt-hour consumed will be adjusted monthly to reflect upward or downward variations in the price of fuels used in generating electric power for our customers' use.

Application of the "fuel adjustment" clause resulted in the following increases in the average of the bills received by our residential customers in 1972 compared with 1971.

AMOUNT ADDED BY INCREASE IN FUEL ADJUSTMENT
July, 1972	August, 1972	September, 1972
$0.85	$1.17	$1.45

Rate Increase

By far the smallest addition to your electric bills this summer resulted from the rate increase put into effect July 1, 1972. This increase, which averages 4.3 percent above the previous rates, is being collected under bond, pending a decision on our filing with the Mississippi Public Service Commission.

As a result of billings under the new rates, the average residential bill rose as follows:

AMOUNT ADDED BY NEW RATES
July, 1972	August, 1972	September, 1972
60 cents	39 cents	42 cents

SUMMARY

The following table summarizes the above factors and shows the increase in the average residential bill in 1972 compared with 1971 before sales tax:

	July	August	September
1971 Bill	$18.83	$19.49	$18.62
Added by Increased Usage	1.09	1.62	3.77
Added by Fuel Adjustment	.85	1.17	1.45
Added by New Rates	.60	.39	.42
1972 Bill	21.37	22.67	24.26

During most of its history, Mississippi Power Company steadily lowered the rates charged for its service but within the last five years, the ravages of inflation have reversed that trend. However, the Company's average residential cost per kilowatt-hour is still well below the national average.

Mississippi Power Company is charged with the responsibility of providing highly reliable electric service to meet the increasing needs of our customers and to power the progress of a dynamic economy. To accomplish this, we must keep our financial structure sound to properly finance a record construction program. Our failure or inability to do so would ultimately result in a reduction in expenditures for facilities necessary for the rendition of adequate and reliable service.

We value our customers and will conduct our business in a way that will merit your continued support and confidence.

Sincerely,

V. J. Daniel, Jr.

Sideline Club Sets Turkey Shoot

The St. Stanislaus Sideline Club will hold its Annual Turkey Shoot November 12 at the football stadium. The shoot will begin at 11 a.m. and continue throughout the day.

The club anticipates awarding about 25 turkeys to the lucky winners in this day-long, two range shoot.

The first, second, third, and fourth place winners will be awarded eight turkeys. These will be competing in the General Shoot for 12 ga. shotguns. There will be special shoots in this class, and the winner of each shoot will be given a turkey.

A new feature this year will be the 410 ga. shotgun shoot. All of these shoots will be "Specials" with the winner of each shoot earning a turkey. For the second year the club will hold the "Big Shot" shoot. This will be a special shoot open to all and the winner will merit a handsome trophy topped by a sharpshooter. Throughout the day there will be food and drink available for all who wish it. Tickets for the general shoot can be obtained from any of the members of the Sideline Club.

As a final added attraction, a 12 ga. Remington shotgun will be given to some lucky winner. This is a Remington 1100 automatic, the pride of its class.

Ceremony Unites Bufkin-Ladner

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting Saturday, November 4, for the afternoon wedding of Miss Carmel Marie Ladner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Ladner of Bay St. Louis, and John Lewis Bufkin, son of Mrs. John L. Bufkin, also of this city, and the late Mr. Bufkin. Very Rev. Gregory Johnson, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with vases of pink and white gladioli and white mums with baskets of pink and white flowers on either side.

Mrs. John McKenna, organist, rendered a program of traditional nuptial music during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length lace knit dress fashioned on empire lines with long sleeves and A-line skirt. A diamond lavalier, a family heirloom, accented her dress. A wreath of white feathered mums and baby's breath and pink sweetheart roses centered with a white orchid.

Miss Janelle Ladner, the bride's twin sister, served as maid of honor and another sister, Miss Lorraine Ladner, was bridesmaid. They wore street length purple velvet dresses styled on the same lines as the bride's and matching velvet head bows. They carried a single light pink gladiolus.

Gary Griffin served the bridegroom as best man and Woods Alliston was groomsmen. Kenneth Bourgeois, brother-in-law of the groom, and Alex Mouldous, cousin of the bride, of New Orleans, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the American Legion Home on Blue Meadow Road. Baskets of pink and white gladioli, white mums, English ivy and wedding bells decorated the reception room.

The bride's table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was centered with a four-tiered cake trimmed with pale pink spun sugar roses and lavender drop flowers. The top tier held a traditional bride and groom ornament.

Mrs. Kenneth Bourgeois, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Sam Favre, an aunt, presided at the cake table. Mrs. Anthony Moran and Mrs. Woods Alliston were at the punch bowl. Miss Mary Thomas kept the guest register.

Mrs. Ladner received their guests wearing a tan knit suit with tapestry coat, grey accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage. The mother of the groom chose a two piece black and white knit suit with black accessories. A white cymbidium orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

For traveling the bride wore a rust color Juliette style dress with matching accessories and the orchid corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Upon their return from a wedding trip the couple will make their home in Bay St. Louis.

The bride is a graduate of Bay Senior High, Class 1972. The groom, a 1971 graduate of Bay Senior High, is attending Jefferson Davis Junior College.

The Gulf Coast In Review

At this Thanksgiving season of the year we reflect and are reminded of the struggling and rebuilding years that we have had here on the coast since Camille. And we're thankful for and proud of the progress that we have made! We're still not back to the way our coast was once remembered, and maybe never will be, but we are on our way to a new, beautiful, and better coast.

It is our purpose in this the "GULF COAST IN REVIEW" edition to provide you with the names, addresses, and brief summary of some of the new businesses, some of the old businesses, and some of the re-established businesses, across the bay who believe in the Gulf Coast and are anxious to serve you. May we suggest that you file this section and when you have need to call on the businesses listed, mention to them that you saw their write-up in your copy of The Sea Coast Echo.

Gulf Coast Hearing Aid Service

"How can I tell if I'm hard-of-hearing?" This is the question that is regularly put to a HEARING AID SPECIALIST. At GULF COAST HEARING AID SERVICE.

Hearing loss often creeps up on people. Frequently, they do not realize what is happening, except that they have the feeling of being "left out of things." Often, there are small signs which can indicate a growing problem. But these signs are usually small rather than dramatic. So they are easy to overlook . . . or to ignore.

For example, if you think folks mumble . . . if their words sound fuzzy . . . if you keep asking your friends to speak up and repeat what they just said . . . if you play the radio and television for your entire neighborhood . . . these may all be symptoms of hearing loss.

Now, suppose you've noticed some or all of these symptoms in yourself. Does this mean that your hearing is failing? Not necessarily. But it does indicate that a hearing test is a sensible precaution — especially if you've passed the age of 50 when hearing loss is most common.

The important thing to do is find out. How? It's easy. It costs you nothing. All you do is phone for an appointment, and arrange for a hearing test. This can be done at your home or at their office. You decide. And, please remember, it's absolutely FREE and without obligation. Call GULF COAST HEARING AID SERVICE at your Zenith representative. Offices are located at 2408 14th (Downtown) in Gulfport.

An INSPIRATION to All

The majestic marble temple that is the Lincoln Memorial, mirrored by its great Reflecting Pool, stands in the Mall in Washington, D.C.

Within is a heroic statue of Abraham Lincoln, and inscribed on interior walls are the great leader's memorable Gettysburg Address and his Second Inaugural Address - all treasured possessions of a reunited country.

"Lincoln touched the log cabin and it became the palace in which greatness was nurtured. He touched the forest and it became to him a church. Some quality fastened him to the people and taught them to keep time to the music of his heart."

Episcopal Women Planning Bazaar

by Adoree Shortle
Echo staff writer

Renovation of a more than 75-year-old carriage house to be used as a church school is the object of a fund raising Bazaar, sponsored by the Women of Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis.

The carriage house will be the setting for the Bazaar, scheduled for November 15, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Proceeds from the Bazaar and the dinner following have been designated for renovation of the historic structure, situated between the church on the beach and the Day School, for use as a much needed Sunday School for the church.

Such use of the carriage house for children is in keeping with a tradition set by John Wisner, former owner of the estate at 912 South Beach Blvd., whose philanthropic gifts to the children of the community through 16 years of residence there are still fondly recalled by many Bay St. Louis natives.

Wisner, a prominent and wealthy cotton broker in New Orleans, first acquired the estate in 1913 from George Clay, another prominent New Orleans businessman who had owned the property prior to the turn of the century.

When Mr. Wisner bought the estate the property consisted of a 210 foot wide strip of land extending from the beach to the railroad. A beautiful anti-bellum home faced the waters of the Bay and some distance behind the main house was the carriage house.

The estate was filled with beautiful formal gardens and on several acres of the rear section of the property was a large citrus orchard, filled with orange, lemon and grapefruit trees which bore "tremendous delicious fruit", one native recalls. Apparently a very generous man, Mr. Wisner was quick to give away quantities of the fruit to friends and neighbors. One of the many recipients as a child, George Heitzmann said, "I think he grew them just for the pleasure of giving them away."

According to Mrs. Samuel Buckland Keen, nee Cora Wisner, her father improved the carriage house by adding a kitchen, bath and two large rooms in the loft. Furnished with chairs, tables and dishes, the carriage house then became the scene of gala Christmas parties which Mr. Wisner hosted each year for the children of the community as well as those of the Episcopal Church, to which the Wisners belonged.

Mrs. Alice Dupaquier, a childhood and life-long friend of Mrs. Keen recalls the parties as being much anticipated by all the children who attended.

There was always a "tremendous Christmas tree", she remembers, laden with decorations and as well as many gifts under the tree for everybody, each child was given one special gift of his choice.

On numerous other occasions through the years the carriage house was the setting for youthful social events, typical of a bygone era of graceful living. Mrs. Keen described one such evening, when she gave a dance for young friends and a local belle "danced holes in her ballet slippers on the concrete floor".

In January of 1930, the Wisners sold the estate and moved away. Cora Wisner was married and living in New Orleans. Twenty years passed and the property changed hands twice before 1951, when Christ Episcopal Church purchased the land from Dr. Thomas Sellers, to be used as a church-school complex.

The main house and the carriage house had survived three major storms, numerous lesser tornadoes and tropical disturbances as well as the ravages of time. The carriage house at that time, although in need of repair, was still sturdy and protected by massive, old oaks.

Fr. Charles Johnson, rector of Christ Episcopal, used the carriage house for Christ Episcopal Day School classes which then consisted of kindergarten and first grade. Once again, the building rang with the sounds of childish voices.

Five years later when a new brick school building was constructed farther to the rear of the property, the carriage house became the kindergarten building. In 1969, when hurricane Camille wiped out the newly-built high school in Pass Christian and the church in Bay St. Louis, the carriage house, supplemented by trailers, was again filled with young people as temporary high school.

In the fall of 1972, Coast Episcopal High School students moved to a large new complex in Pass Christian and the carriage house stood empty - tired, and looking somewhat the worse for wear.

THE CARRIAGE HOUSE on the Wisner estate in Bay St. Louis, is pictured as it looked when John Wisner bought the property in 1913. Now a part of the Christ Episcopal Church and Day School complex, the carriage house will be the scene of a church sponsored Bazaar November 15. Through the Bazaar, the Women of the Church hope to raise funds to convert the building into a church school.

CHRIST EPISCOPAL BAZAAR plans are discussed by Chairman Mrs. Hilaire Ogden, right, and Mrs. Pauline Charpin, both members of the Women of the Church, sponsoring group for the annual event. Proceeds from the bazaar will be used to renovate the carriage house, pictured in the background, to provide a school building for Sunday school classes. The bazaar is scheduled for November 15, from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m.

It was only fitting, after all its history of youth, that the carriage house should be now turned into a church school. And especially appropriate that it is Christ Episcopal church school, as the Wisners were early and active members of that same church during their 16-year residence in Bay St. Louis.

Mrs. Paul Vegas is chairman of the carriage house renovation project and Mrs. Dixie Ogden and Mrs. Pauline Charpin co-chairmen of the upcoming Bazaar, through which the church hopes to raise the money to prepare the building for many future years of being filled with children, as it has been in the past.

Plans Made For Church Dedication

Plans for dedication of St. Ann's Catholic Church, Clermont Harbor, were made Monday night at St. Ann's Altar Society meeting held in the Parish Hall.

Rev. Canasius Hayes, pastor, offered the opening and closing prayer and Mrs. Michael Schmitt, Society president, conducted the business session.

Dedication ceremonies with Bishop Joseph Brunini officiating will be at 7 p.m., November 21, followed by a social in the Parish Hall. Everyone is invited.

Election of officers for the coming year was held. Mrs. Schmitt was re-elected president; Mrs. Irene Graff and Mrs. Frank Klein Jr., re-elected secretary and treasurer. Miss Mercedes Spahr is the new vice president.

The annual Christmas party, a covered dish affair, was discussed and the date set for December 4 in the Parish Hall. Mrs. Schmitt appointed the following party chairman: Mrs. Gloria Moran, Christmas arrangements; Miss Spahr, corsage; Mrs. A.M. Thomas, entertainment and prize, and Mrs. Frank Corcoran, refreshments. There were 11 members attending.
